Fugitive Alert!

May 2009

Neighbors Helping Neighbors

Chesterfield County/Colonial Heights Crime Solvers Inc., like our Chesterfield Community Emergency Response Team (CERT) program, is dedicated to serving Chesterfield's citizens. In an effort to make maximum use of the talent within the Citizens Corps Council, and especially within Chesterfield's CERT program, you are being given information that may help the Crime Solvers Program detectives find wanted fugitives.

Fugitives of the Week: #1298

The Chesterfield County/Colonial Heights Crime Solvers program needs your help to find two of their most wanted fugitives.

Take the time to solve the crime

William Fielden Mick, 22, is wanted for failing to appear in court on a credit card theft charge. Mick is a white male with brown eyes and brown hair.

Jamie Earl Little, 26, is wanted for felonious assault. Little is a black male with brown eyes and black hair.

Photos of these two fugitives and many other wanted men and women can be seen on the Crime Solvers web site at www.crimesolvers.net.

If you have information about these fugitives or any unsolved crime or wanted person in the communities or schools of Chesterfield County or the city of Colonial Heights, you may call Crime Solvers at (804) 748-0660, submit a tip via our Web site, www.crimesolvers.net, or Text-A-Tip by texting "tip699" plus your tip to CRIMES (274637). All three methods will keep you anonymous. If your tip helps to solve a crime or catch a fugitive, you could receive a cash reward of up to $1,000.

The Chesterfield County/Colonial Heights Crime Solvers Inc. is a 501 (c)(3) organization that relies on donations to continue providing its anonymous tip-reporting program. No county or city tax dollars are used to fund the program. If you would like more information about Crime Solvers, please visit its web site at www.crimesolvers.net, or call the business office at (804) 748-1278.
