

“State Safe” Training 2010

Community Emergency Response Team Training for Virginia State Employees

“State Safe” is the highly informative Community Emergency Response Team training program for Commonwealth of Virginia employees. It teaches personal preparedness and emergency response Virginia state employees to use at work and at home.

Upon completion of this Department of Homeland Security program, participants are encouraged to become involved in a local CERT program, or begin one in their own agencies. They can keep their backpacks at work, knowing they are more prepared.

The eight modules are scheduled to accommodate busy schedules. The program culminates with a final exercise to practice the skills learned in class, along with graduation that includes a Certificate of Completion and CERT backpack filled with emergency supplies. Class modules are available for download at www.citizencorps.gov/cert/training_downloads.shtml , CERT Participant Manual.

This training does not replace the required state Terrorism training.
